A monarchy, is a country governed by a monarch or one person, which is suggestive of tyranny. Socialism is the opposite extreme of government and suggests communism and anarchy or the absence of all constituted law. Which do you like the best? I consider one just as deadly to the advancement of civilization and the betterment and progress of the human family as the other.

Emma Goldman, the anarchist passed through St. Louis last week on her way to Jefferson City where she will spend two years in the penitentiary for disloyalty. Emma was convicted some months ago but her sentence has just been confirmed by the supreme court.

Was It Oversight or Accident?

The newspapers can generally be depended upon in getting at the truth of matters of general interest but it sometimes occurs that the press in the unlimited exercise of the privilege of free speech allows designing person to "put one over on it."

A glaring instance of this was seen a few months ago when almost the entire press of the country joined in a mighty wail against senators and representatives in Congress, because as the editorial writers express it, that body had enacted an income tax law and had exempted the members of that body from the provisions of the act. It finally transpired that there was nothing to it. It is strange, in this case at least, how such a rumor should gain attention in the minds of some of our most intelligent writers. We imagine that many a country quill pusher is trying to forget the incident as soon as possible.

The high cost of living will kindly take a rear seat while the cost of high flying takes the floor. Today bids are asked by the Government for five aeroplanes to deliver mail between Washington, Philadelphia and New York. The machines, each capable of carrying 300 pounds and traveling not less than 200 miles without stop at a speed of 100 miles an hour, fully loaded, must be ready for delivery April 25. This aerial service from Washington to New York is to be permanent. A special postal will be charged not exceeding 25 cents an ounce. The letter carriers on this service will not be impeded by any traffic.

It pays to advertise. This office wished to consult the writings of a certain author but was unable to find the book desired. A short notice in the Democrat brought immediate results and this office is placed under obligations to Mrs. Susan Brown for the loan of a copy of the Lost Cause.

Mrs. H. L. Allen returned to her home Friday after several days visit with her son, Ed Allen.

The man who puts his party above his country in times of war is a near-traitor, and that applies to public officials, both high and low, as well to private citizens.

Missouri Corn Best.

Corn mills in Missouri have been instructed by the United States Food Administration to supply home trade first, according to a telegram to F. B. Mumford, federal food administrator for Missouri.

"Missouri has the best quality of corn grown in the United States this year," the telegram said. "All your corn mills have been instructed to supply home trade first. This should give you every advantage in getting substitutes and we trust you will hold fast to the terms of the President's request, as this will surely effect saving of wheat flour."

The serving of pork by-products in any form on porkless days will not be permitted, Mr. Mumford announced. This includes lard. Numerous inquiries have come to Mr. Mumford from lunch counter proprietors asking if pig tails, pig ears, pig feet, and the like could be served on Saturday.

A Shelby county man is of opinion that his 34 Rhode Island Red hens have done right good work in producing 463 eggs during the month of January, and Mrs. Wm. McDill of the same county is thoroughly of opinion that Rhode Islands are not the only pebbles on the beach, basing her opinion on the fact that her 83 white leghorns added 691 eggs to the egg basket during the same month all of which serves to show that the Missouri hen does not take a lay off on account of chilly weather but continues to lay on, and "aigs are aigs" at this particular time.

In the matter of building up the town every citizen, and especially every property holder should consider it a personal matter. When the growth of the town and the consequent rise in real estate values, the property owner is the chief beneficiary and it is self-evident that anything tending to advance the community should be a pure business consideration with him.

Mrs. Hugh Stevens and Gertrude Randol went to Quincy Friday for several days visit with relatives.

A Sad Affliction.

A sad affliction has fallen upon the family of Mr. Mitchell, a farmer living a short distance northwest of Laclede. Of a family of eight children, the eldest but 17 years of age who recently returned from Kansas City, died from an attack of measles followed by pneumonia last week, two of the remaining children died from the same diseases Saturday and were buried Sunday, and another died Sunday night and was buried Tuesday. At this writing the four remaining children are suffering from the same disease and attending physicians have little or no hope for their recovery.—Brookfield Gazette.
